COUNCIL REFUSES GAS CO.'S PROPOSAL

OHIO FUEL GAS HEAD REFUSES CUT IN RATES

Lepper Says Utilities are About to Set 80 Cents
As the Right Rate

COUNCIL WILL FIGHT
To Evade Utilities Commission if Possible

City council and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. reached an agreement to disagree Wednesday evening at council meeting when officials of the gas company refused to grant any concession to the city, on the rate it proposed two weeks ago and council in turn refused to pass the ordinance. The Ohio Fuel Gas Co. wanted the city to accept an ordinance which would keep in effect the same rate that is being paid now for the next two years. After that an increase for the next three years is embodied in the proposition. This boost, although it would amount to not more than $1.80 a year on any gas bill, was heartily opposed by the city dads.

LEPPER IS HERE

Ed. Lepper of Chillicothe, division manager of the utilities company, was present at the council meeting and emphatically stated that the company would not accept a lower rate than that contained in the ordinance. Mr. Lepper stated that he was certain that before long the state utilities commission would announce a gas rate in the state of 80 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Councilman Clark Will then asked Mr. Lepper if that was the case why the gas company was offering the city a rate at 60 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Lepper replied that the good-will of the community was worth the difference.

Although neither side of the controversy was willing to concede to the other, members of the council are still in a receptive mood and are much more willing to perform a compromise than carry the fight to the state utilities commission where much expense and time will be taken before the case is finally disposed of. Although the city will not permit the gas company to put a rate into effect that will cost the subscribers more money they will take every step possible to evade the utilities commission, after its experience in the utilities with the Citizens Telephone rate case.

COUNCIL IS FIRM

Residents of the city should not get the opinion that in order to evade the state utilities commission the council will permit the gas company to put the new rate into effect for members of council have promised that such shall not be. They are going to every means to obtain a lower rate and, says members of council, a higher rate is entirely out of the question.

While the council was refusing the gas company's ordinance, the Southern Ohio Electric Co.'s proposal providing a slight reduction in rate was given its second reading.

COUNTY WASTE BEFORE SENATE

Stories of Poor Budget-Making
Told by Senators Wednesday Evening

COLUMBUS, O., April 2. Sales of alleged waste and extravagance permitted by county officials in careless budget-making today caused the legislature's special taxation committee to investigate the wisdom of ordering state supervision of all county spending.

Seeing a need for economy, the committee ordered the drafting of a bill to provide for the creation of a state board of three members empowered to work out budget for local subdivisions.

Not unaware of probable county protests against state interference the committee indicated that they believe such regulation may be necessary as a protection for taxpayers.

If eventually approved by the committee, the bill will be presented to the legislature at the opening of its special session on Tuesday April 27.

WRECKED REMNANT OF ROCKNE PLANE FUSILAGE

This twisted, broken remnant is all that is left of the fuselage of the west-bound passenger-air mail plane which fell near Bazaar, Kan., killing Coach Knute Rockne of the Notre Dame football team, and others. This picture was rushed by plane and telephoto to this city.

South Bend, Entire Notre Dame Campus In Mourning For Rockne; Members of Football Team Will Be Pallbearers

By JIMMY COORAN

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Apr. 2.—A heart sick city and a reverend alma mater paid hushed tribute today to Knute K. Rockne.

In a chapel along one of South Bend's usually bustling business streets the warrior rested. Within the sanctuary, heaped with flowers, men of Notre Dame stood as sentinels. Traffic moved in slow tempo.

Since the early morning hours hundreds had gathered outside of the chapel seeking a chance to pay their respects. As the noon hour approached sidewalks and streets in the vicinity were almost impassable.

BUSINESS HALTS

Business in this community that knew Rockne and his triumphs so well, was practically at a standstill. Some of the merchants planned to close their shops.

Out on the campus at Notre Dame, the Rev. Charles O'Donnell, president of the university, met scores of former students who had not been on the grounds for years. The great football teams of the last dozen years could not bring them back—But Rockne did today.

Official committees from Notre Dame clubs of Chicago and the St. Joe Valley stood idly by because future plans awaited the arrival of Mrs. K. K. Rockne from Florida, early this evening.

Meanwhile, hundreds of telegrams from all parts of the country requested the information that even the president could not give, and that was the day of services.

It was regarded as most unlikely, on this later day the whole student body of Notre Dame will have returned to classes after the Easter vacation. It is Father O'Donnell's suggestion that Wednesday be named.

REPORT THEFTS TO CITY POLICE

Several minor thefts have been reported to police headquarters the past two days. Paul Weaver, W. High-st., reported his bicycle stolen from the High-st. school building. Robert C. Parks, S. Scioto-st., reported a tire cover stolen from his automobile parked on Scioto-st. and T. F. Jeffries, S. Scioto-st., reported a coat was taken from his car parked on S. Court-st. Police are investigating these thefts.

CHILICOTHE IS AFTER AIRPORT

Despite recent airplane crashes one in which Knute Rockne, noted Notre Dame grid mentor was killed, and another in which a Columbus resident died as a result of a crash, residents of Chillicothe, who regularly use air transportation in transacting their business are demanding the establishing of a suitable airport in their city.

The site agreed upon for the new airport is the northern end of the city Park.

STATE DELAYS PAVING HERE

Report Ohio Rushing Paving Work on Roads Receiving Federal Aid.

Possibility that the state highway department will not complete the contemplated improvement of W. Main-st and the Lancaster-pk this summer, was voiced at the city council meeting when the matter was referred to the service director, service committee and the city engineer for investigation.

It is reported that the state is which are receiving federal aid and are permitting roads to be paved with the state funds to remain as they are for a while.

It is possible that the work on the entrances to the city will be delayed through the summer, although just what action is planned is not known here.

Many of the stars that Rockne had developed here were planning to leave their homes in various parts of the country to pay tribute to their idol. Among the early arrivals were Adam Walsh, Captain of the famous "Four Horsemen" and his brother "Chilly", now coach at St. Louis University.

Jimmy Phelan, former coach at Purdue, and now the chieftain at the University of Washington, was on his way. So was Jess Harper, the man who taught Knute all his early football.

Telegrams of condolence ran into the thousands. They came from the White House and the tenements. There was scarcely a name known in public life that wasn't signed to a wire.

Carideo, Marchy Schwartz, Larry Mullins and Marty Brill.

Whether the services will be held in Sacred Heart church on the campus has not been determined. It is a certainty that thousands will storm the church on the day of the final rites and for that reason there is a possibility that Notre Dame stadium which will serve as Rockne's monument may serve as the setting for the requiem mass.

The gymnasium, too, which will seat 5,000, may be considered as the location for the services.

While the citizens of South Bend fought to get close to the funeral parlors where the gridiron master rested, arrangements were being made to remove the casket to the administration building on the campus.

This was to be done later in the afternoon.

All of South Bend was in mourning. Practically in every shop window pictures of Rockne were draped in black. Flags on office buildings were at half mast. Many wore black arm bands.

SERVICE CHIEF INSTRUCTED TO SURVEY WALKS

Condition of Several Brick Side-walks in City Reported Deplorable

TO FORCE ACTION

City Can Repair and Assess Property-owners

An effort to force the repair of numerous brick sidewalks in the area adjacent to the city's business district was launched by city council Wednesday evening when Councilman Clark Will commented at length over the condition of several streets near the business section.

In several places water stands in the walks until pedestrians are forced to walk on the curbs and even in the streets to prevent getting wet. Some of the brick walks are bad enough to walk on even in good weather let alone bad.

The matter was referred to Paul Adkins, city attorney, for compelling property-owners to perform necessary repairs.

L. E. Miller, city service director, was ordered to make a survey of the different streets which are reported bad and to instruct property-owners to make necessary repairs. If these repairs are refused the city will then be empowered to repair them itself and to assess the property-owner the cost of the work.

A number of the city's streets in different sections are deplorable and have been a sore spot in the eye of many residents for a long time. Women's clubs of the city have been discussing the condition for quite a while and the action taken by city council Wednesday evening in instructing the solicitor and service director to bring about a repair program is thought a result of efforts of the women's clubs.

WOMAN LEAPS TO HER DEATH

Mrs. E. B. Ringwalt of Chillicothe Jumps From Town-St. Bridge in Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., April 2.—E. B. Ringwalt of Chillicothe, today was still stunned by the actions of his wife, Mrs. Belle Ringwalt, 34, who last night quietly excused herself from his side at a wrestling match here and made her way to the Town-st. bridge where she leaped to her death in the Scioto river.

The Ringwalts had been visiting at the home here of the suicide victim's mother, Mrs. Mary Collins.

Ringwalt told police that his wife excused herself, saying she was "going to the dressing room." When she failed to return, he became alarmed. After searching the streets nearby, the police were called. They notified the husband of the tragedy.

The woman's death leap was witnessed by Roy White, who was standing nearby waiting for a street car. He rushed to prevent her action, but too late. The body of the woman was recovered by police, who were called to the scene by White.

23 MISSING AFTER CRASH

British, French Ship Collide During Fog East of Gibraltar

LONDON, April 2.—In a report to the British admiralty, the commandant of the British carrier Glorious stated that twenty-three emigrant passengers of the French liner Florida were found to be missing following a collision between the two vessels.

The report stated they were probably killed when the two ships crashed in a dense fog sixty miles east of Gibraltar. Most of the French liner's passengers were Italians and Syrians.

Seventeen planes from the Glorious' complement were in the air at the time of the collision. Four passengers from the Florida who were thrown into the water by the impact were rescued and taken to Malaga by the airman.

The Florida was beached at the first opportunity, but the Glorious was found seaworthy and proceeded to Gibraltar.

The foreign office announced that one of the Florida's passengers was known to be dead and two seriously and thirteen slightly injured. One member of the vessel's crew also was badly injured.

The twenty-three missing were feared dead, the announcement said.

PRISON BLAZE CONFESSED BY TWO CONVICTS

Indictments to be Brought Against 2, Says Franklin-co Prosecutor

NOTE INTERCEPTED

Desire to Hamper Prison Work is Reason

COLUMBUS, O., April 2.—A year's investigation of the Monday Ohio penitentiary fire of April 21, 1930, in which 220 prisoners lost their lives was expected to be climaxed here today with the return of grand jury indictments against two convicts, who, authorities say, have shouldered the responsibility for starting the blaze.

According to Prosecutor Enoch J. Hoskins, confessions have been obtained from Clinton "Cotton" Grate, sentenced from Dayton, O. for robbery, and Hugh Gibson, known to his cellmates as "The Jew," sentenced from Cleveland also on charges of robbery. Both have served nine years.

THE CRIME IS DEATH. The crime to which the pair of convicts have allegedly confessed, according to Prosecutor Hoskins, warrants a charge of first-degree murder under the state arson act. The penalty is death.

Hated of their cell mates in the building to build cell blocks for convicts, a burning desire to per the prison construction, "graves" of Warden F. E. Thomas and a feverish hope for "hush" motivated the two men to start the fire that ended in one of the worst conflagrations of its kind in history, Hoskins revealed.

Solution of the prison fire mystery had been sought for a year and, although authorities were actually convinced the blaze was of incendiary origin, it was not until Saturday that officials were able to obtain a semblance of tangible evidence that would place the responsibility.

A tell-tale note, or "kite," as it is known in prison parlance, gave authorities the single clue that led to the unearthing of the fire mystery.

SPURRED BY NOTE. The "kite" which authorities say was sent by "Cotton" to "The Jew" was intercepted by prison officials. It's curt message was "Keep your mouth shut."

Spurred by the essence of the message, authorities began an investigation they had almost regarded as futile, and finally obtained confessions, Hoskins charged.

Three attempts were made to fire the prison before the one that actually "went," it was revealed. The other bonfires that were started failed to burn.

The blaze that swept disaster upon the penitentiary was started with a match in the hands of Gibson, according to Hoskins and several other county and city officials. Cotton prepared the makings for the bonfire.

"No single thing has stood out so conspicuously," he writes after twenty years of watching Congress, "as the gap that now prevails between Congress on the one hand and the outside world on the other."

Size is one obstacle to the transaction of business by Congress; in the opinion of Mr. Lawrence.

"But while, numerically speaking," he says, "the question of obtaining a meeting of minds might be unwieldy to handle in a group of 435, all of us have seen groups even as large as that passing questions by unanimous vote and even without roll-call. Congress does that too—when it does not have any controversial questions to deal with. Bills involving many hundreds of millions of dollars have sometimes been passed in a single afternoon without debate just because everybody has agreed and the objective was thoroughly understood."

Outside pressure is a matter not generally comprehended in its proper importance, The Elks Magazine writer believes.

"So whenever you read about some proposal which looks unsound to you," Mr. Lawrence says, "rest assured that before it is enacted into law it will be tested thoroughly and whether ultimately you agree with it when it is law it does represent the viewpoint of a large number of people whose representatives would not have acted had they not believed they were reflecting the desire of many millions of constituents."

"That is not saying that Congress is always right, but it is saying that the collective judgment of the national legislature is based upon something more than their individual desires. To understand government, in other words, we must go back of the national legislature and understand ourselves."

HANDLING OF BOOKS SCORED IN OHIO TRAVELING LIBRARY

COLUMBUS, O.—New quarters for the traveling branch of the state library were being sought here today as an outgrowth of charges yesterday by a member of the state library board that "almost criminal" handling of valuable books has been discovered in the cramped offices now being used.

Following the beginning of an investigation of state library conditions by the library board, State Director of Education John L. Clifton, chairman, was empowered to hunt more suitable rooms in which to house traveling branch books which are separated from books in the library located in the state-house.

Clifton was also asked to make a study of the organization of other state libraries with the aim of learning how many employees and how much money would be needed to operate the library adequately.

Creation of the position of assistant librarian now held by Carl Smith of Kenton, without promise of salary, or any action in expressing disapproval or additional approval of the present state librarian, John Henry Newman of Columbus, probably will be delayed until another meeting, to be held in three weeks.

"It is nothing short of a crime to handle books the way traveling library books are treated now," Rev. Richard R. Fillebrandt of Cincinnati, a member of the board, declared after the group made a short inspection trip.

Referring to books apparently hurriedly packed or tied up to be broken and torn, Rev. Fillebrandt described the action as "plain dumb." He also termed the treatment "malicious destruction of property."

Damage to books protested by the Cincinnati man, Dr. Clifton said, resulted when the branch was moved from a $400-a-month headquarters to one which was rented for $100 monthly.

Repairs needed on the building leased could not be obtained and the former state librarian, George McCormick of Lima, packed up the books to save as many as possible, Clifton said.

Clifton told the board he believed additional state funds for operating the library could be obtained if a definite program were worked out.

Clifton revealed strained relations between McCormick and himself when Rev. Fillebrandt asked him to explain why the library board never held a meeting while McCormick was librarian.

"McCormick refused to recognize that the library was a part of the state department of education and preferred to run it as a separate unit," he said. "The governor (Myers Y. Cooper) told me to leave him alone as much as possible, so I did not call a meeting," he added.

Clifton did not enter enthusiastically into the fight over whether Smith is needed as assistant librarian.

"I don't know whether we need an assistant librarian or not," he said, when the question was asked by Mrs. Dwight Young, Dayton member of the board.

VISUAL HEARING BEING DEVELOPED

COLUMBUS (O.)—By means of the movies and talking pictures, a new method of teaching the deaf and hard of hearing to "hear" with the eyes had been worked out in the speech research laboratories of Ohio State University. The development is also regarded as important for persons going into certain kinds of talking work, and in the study of phonetics.

Not only the method itself, called "visual hearing", but the processes of recording and photographing are new. They were developed by Miss Marie K. Mason, of the department staff.

Classes in phonetics taught in most universities, Dr. G. O. Russell, director of the laboratories explains, are limited to working along similar lines with the ear alone. What has been done at Ohio State is to extend this work to the eye, which plays a part in every person's hearing.

For some time, Miss Mason has been working with students with varying degrees of deafness. She uses reels of special prepared movie film, with talkie accompaniment.

By means of special movie machines in the laboratory, the individual student can run the movies on a screen as many times as are necessary to master a given lesson. The student can also make the persons speaking on the screen repeat exactly as he spoke first, if he did not understand, or change the rate of speech - all without embarrassment.

The lessons follow a natural process of learning on the basis of a scheme carefully thought out by Miss Mason. The lessons are graded from simple to difficult, with a different film for each.

"In every day life, each individual relies upon his eyes more than he realizes," Miss Mason explains, "in order to hear what is being said around him. Any one using opera glasses at the theatre finds it much easier to follow what is being said on the stage. This is due to what may be designated as "visual hearing", or hearing with the eyes. A methodical plan to improve this ability is now being taught in phonetics classes at Ohio State."

The plan has wide practical application, Miss Mason says, because with advancing years every person's hearing begins to deteriorate, usually at an early age. The number of people with impaired hearing may be judged by looking around at those who wear glasses, she adds, for there are more disease, which strike at the hearing than at the eye.

Dr. Russell points out that the system is different from what is commonly known as "lip-reading" "visual hearing", he emphasizes, approaches the subject from quite a different angle in that it is concerned with a careful study of all forms of speech.

SCIENTIST WILL EXPLAIN FINDING

OXFORD, O.—Members of the Ohio, Indiana, and Kentucky Academies of Science, in joint session here, will hear Friday afternoon a description of a method for killing bacteria by the impacts of slowly-moving electrical particles or electrons.

The discoverer is Dr. D. A. Wells, assistant professor of physics in the College of Engineering and Commerce, University of Cincinnati. He speaks before the joint meeting on "Effect of Low Speed Electrons on Bacteria."

Working in the university's Basic Science Research Laboratory, Dr. Wells, designed an "electron gun" by means of which these tiny electrical particles can be shot against bacteria in a vacuum. It is necessary to work in a vacuum because otherwise the electrical particles collide with particles of air, Dr. Wells explained. He has bombarded cultures of bacteria with the electron bullets and found that if the electrons are shot with a speed greater than a certain minimum value, the bacteria are killed. This discovery throws new light on the death process in tiny cells, and since all living things are made up of aggregates of cells, it paves the way for further work on the causes and nature of death.

Repeated exposures of bacteria to electrons of velocity less than the minimum value failed to kill, even when the exposures were for long periods of time. This corresponds to the well-known fact that when bacteria are exposed to ultra-violet light, even for long periods, they are not killed unless the light is of a greater vibration rate or frequency than a certain minimum value.

Dr. Wells has calculated the electron speed corresponding to the minimum frequency of ultra-violet light which will kill bacteria, and he finds that this calculated velocity is considerably less than the killing speed found necessary in his experiments. He concludes that the killing action of the electron bullets must be somewhat different from that of ultra-violet light.

Dr. Wells refers to his electrical bullets as "low velocity electrons." While they are of low velocity in terms of ordinary electron speeds, they travel stupendously fast as compared with objects of everyday experience.

The lowest speed electron bullets with which he obtained killing were shot at 30,000 miles per second. This is in contrast with an average velocity of about half a mile per second for ordinary rifle bullets.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Claiming that he became totally paralyzed as the result of drinking a poison sold him instead of Jamaica ginger, Thomas P. Kelley today had a $17,000 damage suit on file against the Chambers Drug Company.

DEMOCRATS MAY TURN TO OHIO FOR PRESIDENTIAL SELECTION

COLUMBUS, O.—Prediction that the Democratic party will turn to Ohio in making its 1932 presidential selection is voiced by an increasing number of political writers as discussion of possible developments continues.

Surveying the Ohio field, national observers usually group as potential favorite sons of the Buckeye State: James M. Cox, former governor who was a presidential candidate in 1920; Governor George White, who carried the state by a majority of more than 100,000 last November; Senator Robert J. Bulkley who rode into office in the same election; Newton

A DOCTOR'S ADVICE for Stubborn Bowels

"Drink at least six glasses of water daily—preferably before meals. Eat bulkier foods, such as vegetables, fruits and coarse breads. Use a mild laxative as needed."

That is Dr. Caldwell's advice to people with stubborn bowels. He specializes on the bowel, treating thousands for constipation and its ills. The prescription he used over and over in his practice has become the world's most popular laxative! "Syrup Pepsin," as it is now called, was tested by more than 47 years of practice.

Today you can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore in America. It is always the same, made exactly according to the original prescription, from laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other valuable ingredients. Nothing in it to harm even a baby. It does not grip, sicken or cause any discomfort. But it moves the bowels! It gets rid of all the souring waste which clogs the system; makes you bilious, headachy, gassy, bloated, weak, half-sick. A doctor should know what is best for the bowels. Syrup Pepsin is a famous doctor's choice of a safe, pleasant, effective laxative for men, women, older folks, babies and children.

SYRUP PEPSIN
A Doctor's Family Laxative

D. Baker, secretary of war under Woodrow Wilson.

Latest to name these as Ohio four hopes is Leo R. Sacks, Washington correspondent of the Scripps Howard newspapers, who reported last week: "The prospects of an Ohioan receiving the next Democratic presidential nomination have increased materially during the past week."

Neither Governor White nor Senator Bulkley has commented on the published suggestions that one or the other will be nominated. Each is being accorded many "favorable mentions" such as "written by Charles P. Stewart, Washington correspondent of the Central Press Association."

Governor George White of Ohio does not yet look like a pronounced presidential hope for 1932. The gathering March 5 of Jeffersonian national committee members in Washington, however developed a crop of hints that the Buckeye executive may go into the next year's convention with a pretty formidable following. Many more considerations are back of the George White idea, in the minds of those who think White would make a strong candidate, than the mere fact of his Ohio gubernatorial victory last November."

Another hint of this sort, concerning Senator Bulkley, is found in the editorial columns of the Toledo Times which notes: "Senator Bulkley looms as darkhorse possibility. Senator Bulkley represents what has always been considered a pivotal state. The Ohio junior senator is a modest man. He is hesitant to push himself forward to further any presidential aspirations he may have. He can't be ignored."

Meanwhile, with neither, Cox, White, Bulkley nor Baker a candidate, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and Owen D. Young are being looked upon by eastern news writers as active aspirants even though they, too, have not been rash enough to throw their hats into the ring this early. The thought that no easterner will be acceptable when convention time rolls around is prompting national observers to discuss the four Ohioans in virtually all the newspaper lists of available candidates.

Return of President Hoover from his West Indies cruise was followed by gossip to the effect that he favored Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Governor of Porto Rico, and presidential host there, as his running mate in 1932. This aroused friends of Charles Curtis, vice president, and they made it known they would not calmly submit to shelving of Curtis, who was good enough to team with Hoover in 1928, for the substitution of the politically potent name of Roosevelt on the ticket.

Other rumors of dissension in Republican circles incident to President Hoover's trip concerned possible selection of Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, as national chairman. As a rival for the same honor was mentioned Walter F. Brown, postmaster general, and powerful Toledo politician. To reports that one or the other would succeed him, Simeon D. Fess, present G. O. P. chairman, replied: "Nothing to say; absolutely nothing to say."

And as some correspondents wrote of leaders last week some others turned their attention to issues, saw evidence of the belief that prohibition is to be of paramount importance in the 1932 campaign in the vote of the Illinois assembly to repeal the state prohibition law, in the views of Alfred E. Smith, expressed in one of his avuncular newspaper articles. Said Smith: "No amount of argument pro and con will change the undisputed and indisputable fact that which everybody is talking about (prohibition) and which appears in political platforms, and is discussed in every political group, is an issue, and it is foolhardy to attempt it."

A BEAUTY BUSH ON EVERY LAWN
ASHLAND, O.—Henceforth, Ashland shall be "the city of the beauty bush."

Seventy-two per cent of the votes cast in an election here to pick an official flower having expressed a preference for the beauty bush, attempts are now being made by the official flower committee to carry out its slogan: "A beauty bush on every lawn."

Although women's organizations sponsored the contest to pick an official flower, 37 per cent of the votes were cast by men. The mock orange was second choice.

AGED FARMER SPLITS POSTS
CHARDON, O.—Judah Shattuck of Hamden, near here regarded as the oldest active farmer in Ohio, celebrated his recent 95th birthday by splitting fence posts.

But the axe work is a part of Shattuck's daily routine. He arises daily at 8:30 and does farm work until late in the afternoon. He recently cleared several acres of land on his farm from underbrush without any aid from younger members of the family.

Without ache or pain and in perfect health, the aged man bids fair to reach the century mark.

April Fools Growing Wiser

INDICATIONS are that there was less practical joking on April Fool's day this year than last. The custom has shown a steady decline in popularity during the past few years and it is highly probable that it will some day be only a memory, like the noisy and highly dangerous Fourth of July, and the once feared Halloween.

The pranks of yesterday, so far as could be learned, were harmless and time-worn. The telephone bore the brunt of the joking. As usual, but most people failed to be fooled by calls from the morgue, cemetery and the insane hospital. Fewer calls than ever for "Mr. Fish" were recorded at aquariums and only a minimum of victims called their own phones by request.

One does not need to be an old inhabitant to recall the time when April 1 was marked by an outbreak of practical joking that made the day one to be long remembered. Some of the jokes were funny, many asinine and a few dangerous to life and health. It would seem that the practical joker, so called, has fallen somewhat into disrepute, which is just as well, if not a good deal better.

Imagination

IMAGINATION is the younger brother of genius. Children and poets are its custodians. It is the justification of all who refuse to acknowledge the dull routine of existence. To the imagination life is always crowded with romance and mystery. Such a one approaches with eager pace the corner of the unexpected. His motto is, "You can never tell."

While imagination belongs primarily to children and poets, there is no reason why all kinds of people may not be child-like at heart and poets by avocation.

Even those who smile gently or laugh openly at the whims and fancies of the imaginative people must, in the secret of their hearts, occasionally pause to envy such happy individuals. Drab indeed is the life of one whose type was sketched by Wordsworth in the lines:

A primrose by the river's brim,
A yellow primrose was to him,
And it was nothing more.

For, all too soon the imagination of the child fades into the common light of day. Life is austere and exacting. Yet it can be made to yield never-ending charm to one who can hear "tongues in trees" and find "books in the running brooks."

For those who have lost their child-like imagination in the face of life's realities, it may still be purchased. Books and music have the power to bring it back. The drama and the cinema speak its eternal message. It may even be had without money and without price from some blue-eyed youngster in whose immaturity there is rare wisdom.

Don't scoff at imagination in others. Don't be ashamed of it in yourself. In this prosy world it quenches an eternal thirst.

Dressing to Please

A few days ago much space was given in the news to the claim that styles and cuts in feminine raiment are largely controlled by men. Now it appears that, to a large extent women select and buy men's attire for store trade. That makes about fifty-fifty and why not an admirable arrangement?

As a rule the object of fastidious feminine dressers is at least to pass muster with the male element at reviewing stations, and with the masculine peacocks it is the feminine observer whose praise is sought. The matter standing thus, it is a logical arrangement for women to wear clothes that men have designed and for men to deck themselves in raiment that women have selected.

The breaks always go against the drone.

Golf is one good way to kill time, but you can whittle without buying a uniform.

The reason some people are "invalids" is because they have unlimited time to spare.

To thine own self be true and a lot of folk will call you a narrow-minded tightwad.

There's nothing new under the sun unless you found the definition of the word effeminate.

"MURDER AT EAGLE'S NEST"

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Following a party at Eagle's Nest, the home of wealthy Emily Hardy, the Baroness von Wiese is found murdered. Bhima Martin, young newspaper reporter, nicknamed "Bim," a guest at the party, assists her fiancé, Walter Vance, assistant chief of police, in unraveling the mystery. Bim identifies the shawl wrapped around the Baroness as Mary Frost's. Mary's husband, Ted, had been attentive to the Baroness. Bim had noticed Emily's butler, and the Baroness, at the party, in secret conversation, and recalled the maid's scream when she, too, found them together. A strip of uniform linen is found in the shrubbery. The police learn that the Baroness' maid was not in her room that night. The butler denies receiving a note from the Baroness. Bim discovers cuts on the maid's head and arm.

CHAPTER VIII.

BIM was upon the point of calling attention to the abrasion on the maid's forehead—it would have saved the Assistant Chief of Police considerable anxious speculation had she done so—when the blue eyes opened, regarding them all dazedly for a moment before Jane sat up with a murmur of apology.

"I'm being a bother. It's—see, it was so sudden, so hard." She arose weakly, but Bim put a firm hand on her shoulder and made her sit down.

"You stay right there, Jane. Of course, it's hard for you. And you needn't say one word more till you're feeling better. Isn't that right, Walter?"

Jane gave the tall, fair-haired girl a dim smile and said she would go on. "Only there's not much I can tell, sir," she added, speaking to Walter. "I was there asleep and all the while—"

Her voice trailed off as her lips trembled.

Embarrassing Details

"Was it the Baroness' custom to lock you out of her room?" Walter asked thoughtfully.

"Quite often, sir. When she was expecting—that is—"

The girl colored faintly and did not finish. "When she was expecting someone?" Reynolds put in. "That what you mean?"

"Yes, sir."

"Her husband?" Reynolds rumbled on.

"I'd rather—that is, yes sir, I suppose so."

There was a moment of silence while everyone considered the implication of the girl's partial admission.

"How much," Reynolds persisted, "did the Baron know about his wife's affairs?"

"I couldn't say exactly, sir. They seemed to—well, to understand each other."

"You berated," Walter demanded, "she was expecting someone last night?"

"I couldn't say, sir. The door was locked."

"How long have you been with the Baroness?"

"It will be four years next month, sir. I went to her in Paris and I've never left her even for a day."

They contemplated that picture of rare devotion and Em snorted. "Hah!" in a way which made short shift of her own maid. "Some women have all the luck," she remarked. "Got on nicely, too, didn't you?"

"Madame was kind. High strung, to be sure, but—"

Jane shrugged away Walter's memories and held of boudoir scenes. Bim, however, knew suddenly that those scenes were many and furious.

Delving Deeper

Walter questioned the girl about what had happened when Em's guests were on the terrace and she screamed with fear of a mythical robber. She told a straightforward story, repeating substantially what William had told Em and Bim.

"I was almost asleep, sir, and I must have dreamed. We looked about the butler and I, and nothing had been disturbed."

"You're sure," Walter insisted, "that you were in the dressing room when you screamed? That you weren't somewhere else—in the serving pantry, for instance?"

"Certainly, sir." The blue eyes opened wide and if there was fear in them, Bim saw no trace of it.

"Why would I have been in the serving pantry, if I may ask, sir?"

"Yeah—why?" Walter snapped, writing in his little book. "All right, Jane, we'll have a look at the Baroness' rooms now."

They filed up the stairs and through long, wide corridors to the west wing, Jane with Walter and Bim and Reynolds and Em bringing up the rear. Bim noted that the rooms set aside for the Baroness were above the ballroom and Imogene's room, she judged, would be on the third floor direct over the dressing room where Em and herself had found the frightened Jane the night before.

On the other side of the dressing room, Em remarked in passing, was the Baron's room; she said that he was suffering with inflammatory rheumatism and had been obliged to remain in bed. She had summoned a doctor for him, she added.

They inspected the dressing room first and found, as Jane had stated, the door into the bedroom beyond locked from the far side.

The window, also, was closed and locked. But when they went back to the corridor it was to discover that the only other door giving into the boudoir was locked as well!

"Now what do you suppose that means, and where's the key?" Em howled.

Still they were not held up for long since Em, dilapidated housekeeper though she was, soon produced a master key and the door was thrown back upon a scene which seemed more desolate to Bim because of its very orderliness.

Shades drawn carefully allowed narrow bars of sunlight to filter through green hangings and to lie golden upon moss green rug; the beds, turned down beneath a mound of pillows, had not been slept in; crested and monogrammed toilet things were placed in neat rows upon the dressing table.

Only three things there were out of place; first, the door key lay upon the rug as if it had been pushed out of the lock from the outside, second, the key to the dressing room had been flung down upon a low-boy; and third, there was a reddish-brown stain upon the sharp corner of the same piece of furniture.

Reynolds held a magnifying glass over the stain and nodded. "Blood," he said.

They all stood there staring while the Sheriff scraped particles from the stain into his handkerchief, which he folded carefully and put away.

The room was at the southwest corner of the west wing of the mansion; there was a wide, bow window in the south wall and Em explained that a narrow linen room occupied the remainder of the space toward the west. Beneath the window was a sheer drop to the foot of the cliff upon which this wing of the mansion was built.

"A distance of about the height of the house below the ballroom windows on the first floor."

To the right of the window and up at least two or possibly three feet, was a small iron balcony upon which opened a narrow casement from the linen room. Walter climbed out upon the stone ledge beneath the bow window to gauge the distance between this and the balcony and climbed back again, shaking his head.

"Nothing but a monkey could get from one to the other," he told Bim. "And it would have to be a spry monkey—"

The Baroness, he turned to Em, "had jewelry, I suppose? Everything accounted for?"

The Empty Case

Jane answered quickly that Madame's jewels were in her charge.

Madame wore her emeralds last night, sir; I fastened them on myself. She kept them in a little case separate from the others. A soft leather case it was, lined with chamois. The others—I will see."

Fumbling at her neck, she brought up a thin, silver chain to which was attached a pair of small but stout looking keys and one of these she used to unlock a wardrobe trunk which, oddly enough, had been allowed to remain in the bedroom. From the trunk the maid lifted a square black case about the size of a handbag; then she opened it with the second and smaller key.

The case fell apart upon the low-boy where she had placed it, disclosing a lining of tufted black velvet—and nothing else.

"But—but they're gone!" Jane's voice was almost a shriek. "The diamond necklace—the rubies—the pearls!"

Theatres

AT THE MET

"Night Ride", punchy, dramatic, fast-action, all-talking Universal picture starring Joseph Schildkraut as a newspaper reporter marked for death by a gangster, opens at the Met Theatre.

Schildkraut, co-starred with Laura La Plante, in "Show Boat" and starring alone in a later release "The Mississippi Gambler," comes out of romantic costume parts to play a straight role in "Night Ride". In this role he is nearer the Schildkraut of real life than he has been in any of his pictures.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The greatest comedy cast of the year was assembled for "Going Wild," the first National and Vitaphone production which comes to the Cliftona Theatre.

One comedian is usually enough in a picture, but First National has been generous and provided half a dozen!

Joe E. Brown, who has become the foremost comedian in pictures since the advent of the talkies, heads the list as the star of the production, and is credited with having given a funnier performance than he did in the comedy riot "Top Speed."

Frank McHugh, who caused plenty of laughs in "Bright Lights," "The Toast of the Legion," "Dawn Patrol," "The Widow from Chicago," and "Top Speed," plays a highly entertaining part as an inept (ten dollar word for a drunk) in "Going Wild."

HUNGER MARCH IN OHIO SOON

CLEVELAND, O.—Ohio cities are showing some disposition to provide shelter for the "hunger marchers" who are scheduled to tramp from all parts of the state to Columbus, April 16 to 27, but are "not so ready" to provide food, the state committee of unemployed councils, sponsoring the march reported today.

Four routes have been planned for the march, starting from Cleveland, Youngstown, Cincinnati, and Toledo. The first groups will begin the march on April 16 and arrive in Columbus on April 26, according to present plans.

One city not only refused to grant the marchers food and lodging but ordered the police department to instruct the delegation to use another route, the committee reported.

Other cities have promised to furnish lodging for the group and in many of these places, local unemployed councils are staging drives for food supplies, the committee said. Gallion, Akron, Wooster, Mansfield and other cities have "indefinitely" promised lodging without food. Columbus city council has informed the committee that no public funds are available for such purposes.

The marchers plan to converge in the State House on April 27 to demand unemployment insurance for the jobless and state relief for farmers. More than 300 persons are expected to take part.

NEGRO EDUCATION BEING SURVEYED

A special study of high school education for Negroes is being conducted by the Office of Education, Department of the Interior.

Through the cooperation of the state departments of education and the special directors and agents of Negro education in the southern states more than 1,300 schools for Negroes which are doing some high school work have been listed. There are a few more from which the Office expects to hear. A partial analysis of the lists indicates that many of these schools are doing only one or two years of high school work.

Letters have been sent to the principals of the 1,300 high schools inviting them to participate in the survey. The principals have expressed their willingness to cooperate.

The survey is an attempt to ascertain facts regarding the status of secondary education for Negroes with respect to organization, administration, and supervision.

school population, curriculum and extra-curriculum programs, teachers and teaching, and housing and equipment. Effort also will be made to find and reveal outstanding features and special innovations in operation in the various schools.

In connection with the survey, the

Dr. Ambrose Caliver, Office of Education specialist in the education of Negroes, will spend most of the spring visiting schools and making observations of the educational situation in a selected number of communities.

Studebaker is all set

No Mid-Year Model Changes

FREE WHEELING with positive gear control was introduced in The President and The Commander July 10, 1930. It was added to The Dictator Eight in September and to the Studebaker Six in January, 1931.

Today, every Studebaker model has this greatest automotive advancement since the electric starter, plus the utmost in chassis improvements and body refinements.

Therefore, in accordance with the recommendations of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, Studebaker has decided to introduce no new models before next winter.

No other make of car offers such a complete line of chassis and body types as does Studebaker. Here is the proof:

TOUGHEST OF OLD HANG-ON COUGHS GO

And Go Swiftly or Money Back—65 Cents a Bottle

Why send a boy to do man's work? Sweet, sugary cough syrups may help a simple cough, but when you are traveling along toward the cemetery with a stubborn tight old cough that lingers on and on with the most persistent devilishness then you need a real cough medicine—and the quickest destroyer of tough old weakening coughs is Bronchulline Emulsion.

The cough may be so tantalizing that you can't sleep nights and your days may be filled with racking torture, yet that's just the kind of a cough that Bronchulline likes to tackle and conquer.

Many times a few doses will stop the hacking and loosen things up and you can depend upon half a bottle to make a two months' die-hard cough quit cold and disappear.

Life is sweet—it will be much sweeter when you get rid of that old time cough that wears you down.

Ask Hamilton & Ryan or any wide-awake dealer anywhere for a 65 cent bottle of Bronchulline Emulsion. There's no dope in it—or chloroform, and three or four teaspoonfuls will usually end any ordinary cough—that's why results are guaranteed or money back—by druggists everywhere.—Adv.

New York Lawyers Feud Approaches Near Crisis

NEW YORK.—Much more than meets the eye is involved in the investigation of the sensational Bank of United States failure. There is involved a long and bitter feud of two of New York's most famous spectacular lawyers.

Isidor Kresel, attorney for the defunct bank, barely succeeded in having Max D. Steuer disbarred several years ago and now Steuer, inquisitor in the bank case, has succeeded in having Kresel indicted; indicted at the very moment when he stood out on every front page as the scourge of crooked magistrates and policemen.

The story of the background of the bad feeling between these two powerful men and the final meeting between them at the Bank of United States investigation is told by Morris Markey in the current issue of The Elks Magazine, a story of long waiting and revenge.

"You must understand that there was no judge and no jury at this uncommon proceedings," he writes. "No referee, no dignified gentleman at all to sit on a raised chair, and bend forward to direct the matter, and pound for order if the thing got out of hand. There was not even a court attendant to call for silence, and that duty fell upon one of the troopers, who clapped his hands together sharply and said

"Let's have some order here." The whispering stopped.

"Mr. Steuer leaned forward slightly, and looked at the small, wistful man at the other end of the table. Was it unlikely that he was thinking then, of the day when he was forced to appear before the Bar Association, and defend himself against his opponent's taunts? His face was almost expressionless, and his hands were still.

"Mr. Kresel," he began. "Are you familiar with section 359 of the Business Laws?"

"Kresel answered 'Yes.'"

For the most part the two men restrained themselves and their parley was most polite, relates the Elks Magazine writer. They were men engaging with the greatest subtlety in a duel at law.

Make Plans for Open Golf Meet

NEW YORK, April 2.—One hundred and fifty players will be eligible for the National Open Golf championship to be staged at the Forest Hills club in Toledo, Ohio, on July 2nd, 3rd, and 4th. It was announced today by the United States Golf Association.

Of this number, the first thirty contestants and ties who returned low scores in the open championship rounds of 1930 will be exempt from qualifying. American professionals who compete in the British open also will be exempt from qualifying.

The sectional qualifying rounds will be played on Monday, June 8, in the following twenty districts throughout the country:

Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Richmond, Atlanta, Dallas, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, St. Paul, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Seattle, Omaha, Cincinnati and Buffalo.

Entries will close on May 19. The number of qualifiers from each district will be determined at that time by the championship committee.

The name of the famous Bobby Jones is listed as one of the players who is exempt from qualifying on June 8. There is no indication, however, in the announcement of the United States Golf Association that the Atlanta golfing wizard

FAVOR CLEVELAND FOR CHAMP FIGHT

CLEVELAND, O.—The new $2,500,000 municipal stadium now under construction here will be ready and available for the Max Schmeling-W. L. (Young) Stribling heavyweight boxing match this summer if promoters select Cleveland as the site for the bout, George H. Bender, manager of the stadium said today.

"We have been trying to get the fight for the stadium for several months," Bender stated, but refused to disclose what negotiations he already has made with the backers of the heavyweight battle. Bender was to meet the contract holders for the bout, who are expected to arrive in Cleveland today, and take them on a tour of inspection of the new stadium.

Contracts call for the completion of the mammoth structure by July 1, Bender said. "After July 1, the stadium will be available for the Schmeling-Stribling fight at almost any date," the manager declared.

FISHERMAN, 85, GIVEN LICENSE

Ferd M. Pickens, clerk of courts, in making his annual report on sale of hunting and fishing licenses since Jan. 1, to the state conservation department, discloses that the oldest person who obtained a fishing permit in his office is Isaac Groves, aged 85, of Water-st, this city. Mr. Groves knows all the old fishing holes and nearly every place where a fish can possibly be caught in the streams of the county. The youngest person to obtain a license was Bernard Martin, 23, this city. Thirty fishing licenses have been purchased since the first of the year.

The clerk is required to make reports quarterly. Of the $1.10 collected for each fishing permit, $1 goes to the state and 10 cents to the county. For hunting licenses, price $1.25, $1 goes to the state and 25 cents to the county.

RUBBER FLIPS CAUSE DAMAGE

Due to the fact that several such cases have been reported it was announced at police headquarters Wednesday that shooting with rubber flips, slingshots or the like is a violation of the General Code of Ohio and also a violation of an ordinance of the city.

Several school children have been taken into custody by officers following the breaking of several windows at Walnut-st school building during the past week. Children are warned by police not to violate this ordinance or they will be taken into custody in juvenile court.

WEALTHY NEGRO SHOT TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Apr. 2.—Paul Quarrels, 42, colored, said by police to have been one of the "big four" in Harlem's million-dollar-a-week "policy" game, was shot down and killed by a lone assassin today.

According to the authorities Quarrels was to have been called within the next few days by Referee Samuel Serbury as a witness in the appellate divisions inquiry into magistrates' courts. The investigation is now concerned with the "policy" game, described as a "gambling racket."

YOUTH STEALS WOMAN'S RINGS

CLEVELAND, Apr. 2.—A tall youth of 20 or 22 years of age was hunted by police today as the assailant of Mrs. Rose Becker, 23, whose battered and strangled body was found in the bathroom of her apartment late yesterday.

With the discovery that four diamond rings and other jewelry belonging to the murder victim were missing, police today offered the theory that the woman was slain by a thief who was caught in the act of ransacking the suite.

POSED AS "FED" AGENTS, CAUGHT

CHICAGO, Apr. 2.—Charged with posing as federal dry agents and shaking down roadhouse owners for about $10,000, Charles La Fata, 25, of Cincinnati, and Frank Harris, 38 of Macon, Ga., today were under arrest here.

Federal authorities also arrested a young woman, whose name was not given, and Martin Salzman.

CAIRO—Howard Carter, whose recurring illness is said to result from an ancient curse imposed on those penetrating into the tomb of Tutankhamen, is recovering rapidly here after a new attack while engaged in further exploration at Luxor. You can purchase Allenru from Hamilton & Ryan's or any progressive druggist in America—a large 8 ounce bottle 85 cents—a 1 money back if it doesn't do as advertised.—Adv.

SHEEP-KILLER FINALLY SHOT

FIREMAN, O.—"The Queen of the Woods" wild female dog that for more than a year imperiled every sheep in this section, at last is dead, but even the men who lured her to protect the flocks of the vicinity admit that, had she not been victimized by a deceptive wind, she would still be at large.

Cunning as a fox and almost as fleet as a deer, "The queen" evaded pursuers time after time and conducted her personal reign of terror almost as she pleased until county Warden Hiley Mook, unconsciously taking advantage of a wind that prevented her from scenting his approach, shot and killed her.

"The Queen had a den in a hollow tree in Woodville—two miles where she frequently dragged the carcasses of her victims.

Traps and poison failed to stop her raids and she never failed to escape when enemies approached her den. Apparently she always scented their advance.

Three times she was deprived of a mate by pursuers. She was always able to escape but her companions lacked her swiftness and were shot by enemies.

Her latest raid netted her only one ewe. Hearing of her latest attack, Warden Mook and assistant visited her den again. A north wind blowing against them failed to prevent them of their approach. Armed by their traps, she was too late to flee. Bullets from Mook's took both "the queen" and her fourth mate.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—The captors of William Edward Hickman, convicted and hanged for the slaying of Marian Parker here in 1927 today had won their fight to collect a $10,000 reward offered by the city of Los Angeles. In addition the court held that Thomas C. Gurdane and F. L. Lienallen, Oregon officers, should be paid 7 per cent interest for more than three years.

The city fought payment of the reward on the contention that the mayor had not yet signed the reward ordinance when the capture was made.

Better Tailoring!

FOR EASTER

SUITS and Topcoats are presented this season in a fashion review that outrivals anything this Store has ever shown before. The vim and vigor of the new season are correctly interpreted in the modeling, in the woollens and in the needlework. Here you will note that the designers with their accomplices strove to give you Clothes of custom-like character—and were successful. And equally interesting are the new lowered prices—now making it possible for most men to wear good Clothes at low cost.

GOVERNMENT MONEY MATTERS ON PUBLIC DEBT DISCUSSED

WASHINGTON. — Transactions in the American public debt during the 1931, 1932 and 1933 fiscal years will amount to the enormous total of around $30,000,000,000 provided the first and fourth liberty loans are refunded on the call dates, it was learned at the treasury today.

For the current year it was expected the turnover will amount to more than $10,000,000,000, as the public debt increases to approximately $16,800,000,000, as compared with $16,185,000,000 at the end of the 1930 fiscal year.

New issues of government obligations between July 1, 1930 and June 30 probably will total around $5,800,000,000 with retirements of possibly $5,100,000,000, both depending upon the need for funds above ordinary receipts between now and the end of the year.

It will mark the first increase in the public debt since the war.

On the basis of securities already issued, which mature or are callable in the 1932 fiscal year, beginning July 1, the turnover will be about $9,000,000,000 in that period. The first liberty of $1,933,537,300 is callable in 1932 while maturities include $451,720,450 in 3 1-2 per cent notes and certificates bringing the total above $4,000,000,000.

From present indications there will be a deficit next year which means there may be no debt reduction. Thus all maturing securities must be replaced by new issues. Either before June 30 or during the 1932 fiscal year there will be one bond issue or more to clear the market of the floating debt to facilitate possible call of the liberty loans.

Maturities in 1933 so far certain are the 4 1-4 per cent fourth liberties amounting to $6,263,232,000. While there is uncertainty as to whether the first liberty will be called, the treasury is still planning to refund the 4 1-4 per cent bonds in 1933 into securities drawing lower interest rates. To this total must be added certificates which will be issued during 1932, since most of them will mature the following year.

By 1933 it is anticipated there would be sufficient improvement in business to resume once more the "orderly retirement" of the

GUARDS SEARCH FOR SPEEDSTERS

HAVANA, April 2.—The cruiser Cuba and coast guardsmen were searching today for two yachts which failed to reach Havana after engaging in an ocean race with St. Petersburg, Fla., as their starting point.

Another yacht, also reported missing for a time, made port here after weathering a severe storm. The unreported pleasure craft included the Cynosure 2nd, property of Admiral G. Gandy of St. Petersburg, and the Virginian. The latter belonged to Dr. Howard Walker, of Mobile, Ala.

There is a possibility that the boats sought shelter among keys off the Florida coast to escape the storm and rough seas.

MILK IS STOLEN FROM PORCHES

Although none have been reported to police headquarters, quite a number of minor thefts have been taking place in the south end of the city during the past month, especially on S. Court-st, where many screen doors have been cut, and such items as milk, meat and other groceries have been stolen from porches.

Tuesday evening thieves stole milk and other articles from several back porches on S Court-st. The residents do not want their names made known, although they say they know the culprit, and warn him that he will be reported to police, if his actions are not discontinued.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Hunsicker and John L. Hunsicker of Williamsport, and Mrs. Ella Hornbeck of this city, attended the funeral of Tom Hunsicker, banker of Dayton, O., Thursday.

While the deceased has been in rapidly declining health for several months, yet his death was a great shock to his friends in Wayne-co as well as Pickaway-co. Mr. Hunsicker's activity in church, public schools and civic affairs in his home town of Dalton overtaxed his health, and when his health failed totally from a serious case of influenza his mind gave away resulting in his tragic death by suicide.

ROB DRUGGISTS

Columbus police were seeking two young bandits who held up Bert Glick proprietor of an east side drug store in Columbus last night, and escaped with $150. Glick is a brother-in-law of Mrs. C. L. Hitler, W. Mound-st.

Glick, the owner, and his assistant, T. L. Zuber, were closing the store they say, when two well dressed men came in and ordered them to open the cash register. They refused and the gunmen locked them in the basement, and rifled the register of $150.

RUSH RELIEF TO MANAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 2.—Devastated Managua, reduced to shambles by Tuesday's continuing earthquakes and fires, staked all hope today on the quick arrival of relief forces rushing here by air, land and sea.

Exhausted local rescue detachments composed largely of American marines and medical units defied tremendous obstacles in their efforts to fight off epidemic and alleviate the sufferings of survivors, thousands of whom were evacuated in the last twenty-four hours to prevent hunger and thirst as well as further casualties. Hundreds of bodies have been buried in common graves and others were cremated to frustrate the spread of disease, while the search for victims still under the smoking ruins continued unabated.

DETROIT, Mich., April 2.—A 19-year-old youth and a beautiful 23-year-old widow, the former a confessed bank-robbler and the latter, the alleged "brains" of the bandit gang were arrested here today as police closed in on the alleged robber who participated in a $2,530 bank robbery in Volant, Penn., last August.
